

Access to the Appalachian Trail
By following the Rhododendron Trail a half mile from the Massie Gap parking area, hikers can reach the famous Appalachian Trail. The trail is the world’s second longest footpath and stretches from Maine to Georgia. For more information on the trail, contact: The Appalachian Trail Conference, P. O. Box 236, Harpers Ferry, WV 25425.

The Appalachian Trail is the most popular way to reach Mount Rogers, Virginia’s highest mountain peak at 5,729 feet above sea level. A comprehensive map and guide featuring all the trails in Grayson Highlands State Park and the Mount Rogers National Recreational Area, including the Appalachian Trail, is for sale at the park and recreational area visitor centers.

Horses in the High Country
The stable area campground in Grayson Highlands provides 23 campsites for guests who bring their own horses. The sites can accommodate either tent or trailer. Additionally, there is a total of 67 stalls, 38 covered, 29 uncovered.

All state park camping regulations apply to this area. All horses must be tied into specific stalls. All horses stabled overnight must have valid Coggins papers.

Special orange-blaze trails are provided for horse use. A bridle trail in the stable area splits, with one fork leading to the Virginia Highlands system and the other to the Little Wilson Creek Wilderness Area. These are the only park trails on which horses are allowed. Also, for the enjoyment of all park guests, please keep horses away from camping, picnic and visitor center areas.
